REGENTS ORDER CUT IN BUDGETS COMING YEAR

TEACHERS COLLEGES TAKE LEAD FOR ECONOMY.

Estimate Twenty-five Percent Reduction in Budgets for the Coming Two Years.

Regents of the teachers colleges in Texas have taken the lead for the educational institutions by ordering at the Dallas meeting last Friday that budgets to lowered about 25 percent under the requests made of the legislature last year. Presidents of the colleges are starting to work up their budget requests for the 43rd legislature which meets in January of next year, and the regents are backing a program of strict economy.

The Board of Control will pass upon the budgets as submitted by the presidents, and it is very likely that the new State Board of Education will pass upon the needs of the institutions. Before the budgets are printed by the Board of Control, a new law passed by the 42nd legislature requires that the budgets be submitted to the Governor who will make recommendations.

It is expected that members of the Board of Control will visit W. T. during the month of April in order to make an inspection of the plant and to pass upon the budget as prepared by President J. A. Hill.

An order was passed Friday forbidding the employment of two or more members of any family on the faculty of any of the teachers colleges after the first of June this year.

Mrs. Reeves Returns From Publicity Meet In Dallas

Mrs. T. V. Reeves returned Monday from Dallas where she had attended the annual meeting of District Five of the American Colleges Publicity Association. Colleges from Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippii, Lousiana Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota, and North Dakota are members of District Five.

The program at Dallas Friday was in charge of Curtis Vinson, publicity director of Texas A. & M. College, and speakers were representatives of United and Associated Press, the Dallas News, the Waco News-Tribune, and others.

John Williams of the Publicity Department of Missouri University was elected director of District Five to succeed Curtis Vinson. The 1933 meeting place was not designated.

Need of Vocational Choice for Boys is Talk by Carruth

A study of vocational training in the public schools was made Tuesday at the Rotary luncheon by Irby Carruth, superintendent of the Canyon public schools. Mr. Carruth pointed out the fact that 35 per cent of the boys and girls left the schools before they had completed the 8th grade, and that only 11 per cent reached the grade of graduation. Therefore, the schools need a lot of work in vocational training for the benefit of those who will not complete even the high school grades.

Mr. Carruth called attention to the lure which caused most of the young people to stop school. These who quit are largely the ones who are today out of jobs, because they have been equipped for no job in particular. This great mass of untrained causes much of the social and moral discontent existing today.

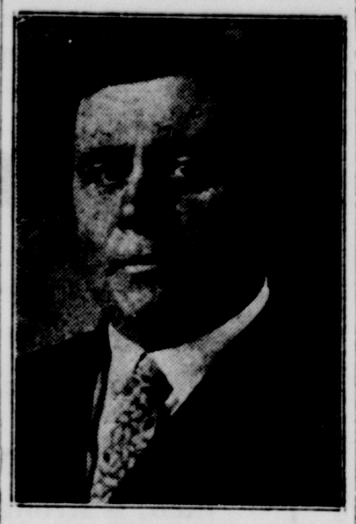
Mr. Carruth believes that Rotary clubs were doing a great work in urging that boys and girls remain in schools at the ages when they were desiring to leave. Wise counsel and advice on the part of the business leaders and professional men of the city would greatly influence many who were tempted to leave school.

Visitors Tuesday were: Laroy C. White, F. A. Zinpfer, Gene Settle, Ben Anderson, Frank Storm, Rev. G. J. Irwin and Glenn Coffee of Amarillo; Charlie Horn of Channing.

The birthdays of Bill Bryant on Feb. 5th and Floyd Savage on Feb. 8th were recognized.

Miss Bess Crum and W. J. Miller of Perryton visited in the home of his brother, W. E. Miller, in Canyon Sunday.

M. W. Hess Asks Re-Election For Commissioner, No. 2



M. W. HESS

M. W. Hess has authorized the announcement of his candidacy for re-election as County Commissioner, Precinct No. 2. Mr. Hess is serving his third term as County Commisisoner, and is asking for re-election strictly upon the record made in this office.

Mr. Hess states that he wishes to see the county government continue efficiently but at the same time economically. He is proud of the progress that has been made in the county, and the achievements, especially in the matter of road construction and maintenance. He wants to see the highways completed in Randall county, and the country roads kept at the present state of repair.

Working with the Commissioners Court, Mr. Hess has voted to reduce running expenses at every place possible, and believes that expenses will be further reduced this year through economies which the court has in mind. It is not his policy to injure or cripple any department in the county but to demand that value be received for every dollar spent by the county. With these savings in mind, the taxes of the county will be reduced materially during the coming year, is the belief of Mr. Hess.

Mr. Hess states that he will attempt to see all of the voters of his precinct during the coming weeks, and will appreciate their support in the Democratic primary on July 23.

C. of C. Appoints Budget Committee Friday Night

A committee composed of S. H. Condron, W. A. Warren, Levi Cole and Fred Wortham was appointed to work out the 1932 budget of the Chamber of Commerce, at the directors meeting held last Friday night. The committee will outline a work program for the year as well as the budget.

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the purchase and resale of certified seed to farmers again this year in cooperaton with County Agent W. H. Upchurch. Mr. Upchurch in speaking to the directors of the Chamber of Commerce stated that he believed a work was begun here several years ago which by continuing has meant much to the county and will mean much more in the future. The seed is to be purchased from certified seed producers and sold to the farmers in this territory at actual cost. Mr. Upchurch believes that seed this year may be purchased at a considerably lower price than last year.

Incidental bills for the past month to the amount of $9.45 were allowed by the directors.

Directors and officials present at the Friday night meeting were: S. H. Condron, Harris M. Cook, W. A. Warren, Levi Cole, Ray V. Davis, A. W. Sternenberg, T. C. Thompson and Fred E. Wortham. Visitors present at the meeting were: Dr. R. P. Jarrett, W. H. Upchurch and James B. Elliston.

The following report of the secretary for a part of the work of the past month was presented to the directorate:

"This office had 63 visitors during the month of January who visited the office for the purpose of discussing matters pertaining to the Chamber of Commerce. In the same time there were 76 phone calls. Publicity stories sent out from this office numbered 91; 77 letters pertaining to the organization's work were written and mailed.

"Other activities included: Your secretary assisted the college extension department in organizing a public speaking class for business

County Collects $25,000 From The Auto Owners

Randall county has collected $24,956.72 from the owners of automobiles for road work in the county during the coming year. Tax Collector has remitted this amount to the county treasurer, in addition to the $180.30 which went to Austin. Several cars owners are daily paying for their 1932 license plates, which will increase this amount considerably during the coming weeks. A penalty of 20 percent was added on payments starting Feb. 1st.

Randall county now has about 800 miles of county roads in addition to the state highways which go through the county.

Paving Contract on Highway South Set for Feb. 29th

The State Highway Commission will let the contract for paving Highway No. 9 south from Canyon on February 29th according to advice received here from Austin. The highway will be let in two sections, the first section being 8.29 miles of the highway just south of Canyon, and the second section being 8.34 miles from this point on to the city of Happy. The specifications calls for caliche base with asphalt topping. The pavement will be 22 feet wide, instead of the usual 20 feet which has been the rule in the past.

Judge S. B. Orton states that notice may yet be received for the contract to be let on Highway No. 33, west of the city to the Deaf Smith county line. The plans have been completed on this highway, and if possible it is hoped to let this contract also at the Feb. 29th meeting of the State Highway Commission. However, it may have been found necessary to postpone this letting until the April meet.

D. E. Covington Asks Re-Election Co. Commissioner

D. E. COVINGTON

D. E. Covington authorized the announcement this morning that he is a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner, Precinct No. 1. Mr. Covington is serving his first term as County Commissioner, and is basing his claim for re-election to a second term on his record during the past year.

Mr. Covington states that he stands for a program of good roads in this precinct, as well as the entire county. He believes that the Commissioner should work with the men employed by the county, and thereby gets much better service and more labor for the money expended than otherwise would be the case. He has followed this practice and will continue to do this if re-elected.

In the same manner, Mr. Covington states that he believes in strict economy for every line of business in which the county engages. He states that the records of the Commissioners Court will show that the county's running expenses have been materially reduced the past year, and that during the coming year will be reduced more. Mr. Covington is not in favor of crippling the county government, but stands with the balance of the Commissioners Court in demanding value received for every dollar of the tax payers money which is spent. If re-elected he will continue the same policy as he has followed during the past year in getting the most for the money which the county puts out.

Mr. Covington states that he hopes to see every voter during the campaign, and hopes that all voters will take this announcement as a solicitation for their support in the campaign and their vote in the primary July 23.

ROTARY CLUB RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions have been adopted by the Canyon Rotary Club in memory of the deceased member, Rev. Wes. C. Kunze:

There was the deepest sorrow among all Rotarians when the word came that Wes Kunze had passed into the Great Beyond. At our meetings and our banquet tables he was always a central figure, beloved and admired by all, not only for his sterling worth but for his love for mankind both high and low.

In the pulpit and as a citizen of the town he was representative, able, congenial, lovable. In our meetings he will always be missed and we feel there is none that can take his place. Both he and his estimable wife held a unique place amid the citizenship of our town, and to her and to his father and brothers we extend our most cordial feeling of respect and sympathy.

BUFFS CLEAN SIMMONS IN FOUR GAMES

A. C. C. HERE FRIDAY-SATURDAY, FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Buffs Have Clean Slate, While A. C. C. Has One Defeat—Simmons No Match.

The championship of the T. I. A. A. will be settled Friday and Saturday nights when Abilene Christian College will invade the Buffalo range. The odds will be against the visitors, who will be forced to win both starts in order to nose out the Buffs in the conference, since the Wildcats have suffered on defeat this season.

The Bufaloes, tallestf team in America, continued the winning streak by bowling over Simmons University for four straight games. Simmons tops the Texas Conference. Following the defeat of Simmons at Abilene last Wednesday night by a score of 57-40 the Buffs repeated again on Thursday night with a score of 51-34, ending the road trip for the Herd.

Simmons came to Canyon for a two night stand Monday and Tuesday, both games being chalked up in favor of the Buffaloes, with scores of 48-22 and 68-36. The slaughter Tuesday night would have been teriffic had not Coach Burton pulled the first string before the first half ended. The Buffs were never working better than in the start Tuesday night, and the Big Coach hopes that his tall boys will click in this fashion Friday night for the championship go.

The games will begin at 8 o'clock Friday night and at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

The board of trustees has postponed enforcing the penalty until Feb. 16th, and hope that before that time to collect several thousand dollars more in taxes. The schools will need all of the taxes to complete the year's work.

The dairy cows of the county should all be tested during the campaign which is being put on this month by the Randall County Dairymen's Association. About 1000 cows will be tested, according to owners who have signed up so far. Every cow in the county which is furnishing milk for human consumption should by all means be tested. About 200 of the cows which will be tested furnish milk to the city of Canyon. Every cow which furnishes milk to Amarillo must be tested, regardless of what the owner may think about the necessity. It is usual that smaller towns do not realize the necessity of a milk ordinance until a case of tuberculosis develops, or someone dies as a result of impure milk. On account of the College, Canyon needs the protection of a milk ordinance, and even without such an ordinance, every person who furnishes milk to the public should consider it his duty to see that his cows are free of tuberculosis. He would not knowingly spread any other kind of diseases so why run the risk of spreading a terrible disease like tuberculosis when it is so easy to ascertain whether or not the milk cows are free from infection.

Did Andrew Mellon quit his job as head of the treasury department on account of the impeachment charges, or did President Hoover change Mellon's Job because he felt that the treasury head was too much of a millstone in the Hoover campaign for re-election? These questions will prebobly not be authentically answered. Mellon would hardly be considered adequate material for the embassadorship to England under ordinary conditions. The only conceivable reason for sending him abroad at this time was on account of the debt question. If neither of the first two questions was pertinent, perhaps the President felt the necessity of having a hard boiled banker abroad who was not afraid to say "no" when the countries of Europe were demanding cancellation of debts.

Al Smith has announced his willingness to run for President. That is most unfortunate for the Democratic party. His announcement probably is more of a slap at Franklin Roosevelt than anything else, because Smith certainly realizes that he will not be nominated, and could not be elected if he should be named. Smith's stand on the liquor question will again drive from the Democratic party the Southern States which left him in the general election four years ago. Democracy has the best chance to elect a president that it has had in recent years and to name Smith would be throwing away this chance. Friends of John Garner believe that Smith's announcement will strengthen the Texan's chance to enter as a compromise candidate.

It was disappointing that taxes for the Canyon Independent School district should fall behind so much, as compared with other taxes. The school has been getting along fine this year, thanks to the number of large tax payers who made their payments early in the year. But more taxes must be collected before February 15th if the schools are not to suffer this year. The public schools are the most important part of the life of any community. If the schools fail to function, then the future life of the community is greatly handicapped. Those who have not paid their school taxes should do so at once.

Poll tax payments in Randall were indeed pleasing. It looked a week before the closing period that payments would fall off very greatly. The mighty rush of the last three days brought the total within a few of the maximum number of payments ever made in Randall County. The people of the county show a very great interest in the elections of this year, and want to be armed with the proper poll tax receipt with which to do their duty as citizens. Now that the voters are prepared for the elections, the candidates will have plenty of work until primary time.

Poor China is a republic without a head capable of handling the affairs of the millions of population. Bandits and warlords are many and their activities wipe out possibilities of peace. The Japs are taking advantage of the period of depression when all nations have their hands full with economic conditions at home, and will likely offer little or no interference. If Japan can bring peace out of chaos in China, some good may come out of the present invasion. However, it seems strange to have a good sized war in progress without war being declared by either side engaged.

The cotton acreage law has been declared unconstitutional by a district judge. In view of the fact that there are 124 other district judges in the state, together with 11 courts of civil appeals, and the supreme court with its two sections, the reader may understand how more decisions might be rendered on the same question. However it is cotton planting time in South Texas. Most of the farmers are determined to ignore the law; the other cotton raising states are going to do the same thing.

Bruce Barton had a thoughtful editorial in Monday's daily newspaper. He pictured conditions in America, wearing out old clothes, automobiles, machinery and every other commodity during this period of depression. When the restocking period comes, there will be a great demand of manufactured articles. The factories will need raw material, and therefore the wheels of industry will start, with a wave of prosperity. We're all hoping that the time is not far removed.

The wind of last Wednesday and again Sunday reminded old timers of the days when winds were winds. There has been very little wind the past few months, and perhaps the elements thought it best to show the people they had not forgotten how to function. However, you noted by Thursday morning's papers the storms in other sections. When there is wind in the Panhandle you may expect some real storms in other sections.

What to do with the sheep tracks checkerboarding the court house lawn! The News has called attention time and again to the bad practice of cutting across the lawn, but to no avail. The court house lawn should be a beauty spot of the city, and the commissioners are willing to spend the necessary money to improve it, but there is little use if folks continue to make paths across it in all directions.

The flu has started in many towns of the Plains, and hundreds are sick with the epidemic. It is stated that going to bed and staying there is the best cure. The epidemic may be expected to hit Canyon at any time.

This is an ideal spring for tree planting. Plenty of moisture in the ground will insure a good start. Make your home more beautiful, and help Canyon become the most beautiful town on the Plains.

Jap needs to be paddled and sent home. However we hope Uncle Sam does not undertake to do the job.

The ground hog saw his shadow Tuesday, the wind blew Wednesday, and for the balance of the week ideal weather prevailed.

President Hoover advocates antihording. As a result we just stepped out and spent our last 15c. Now what shall we do?

Southwest Plainsman, Amarillo: Announcements of candidates for the various State and county offices are coming in with regularity, these days, and voters of this district are glad to know that Representative Clyde W. Warwick will offer for re-election. While it is yet early for entries in the race, no opposition to Warwick's candidacy has been hinted to date and the satisfaction with which the citizens of Potter, Armstrong, Carson, Deaf Smith, Oldham and Randall Counties have viewed the work of their representative indicates that another aspirant would be contending against heavy odds. Mr. Warwick was conscripted for service in the legislature in the first place and returned to the office without opposition for his second term. His stand for economy in public expenditures as exemplified in his successful administration of the important position of chairman of the Contingent Expenses Committee where he inaugurated economies that kept the House expenditures at a much lower level than ever before, is in line with the spirit of the times and the demands of the overburdened taxpayers. His past experience on this committee enables him to see where other thousands of dollars may be saved to the State and it is woefully apparent that such curbing influences are all too few in our State government. Having no personal ambition to gratify, Mr. Warwick conscientiously gives his full time and attention to the best interests of his constituency and the people of Texas at large and is not diverted from his purpose by matters of expediency or political wire-pulling. While giving his utmost in cooperative effort and influence in all measures of concern to West Texas, his work on the important Appropriations, Banks and Banking, Penitentiary, Public Printing, Municipal and Private Corporations Committees revealed his sincere devotion to the well-being of the State as a whole—a revelation that was still further enhanced by his record on all bills voted on by the House. All over this country, citizens everywhere are rising up in righteous indignation against the machinations of politicians who use their prerogatives for the furtherance of their own selfish ambitions for wealth or power and when a district is so uncommonly blessed with a sane, sensible, steadfast and sincere representative as is the 123rd District in Representative Warwick, it is safe to say that that representative will be returned with the unqualified support of his constituents.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Launched by King Iphitos of Elis in 776 B. C., and Revived by Baron Pierre de Coubertin in 1892, Olympic Games Are Still Going Strong

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE Greeks had a word for it as early as 776 B. C. A diplomatic old Elean king, Iphitos by name, first staged it at the foot of Mt. Olympus where dwelt Zeus among the gods. And thus it became the Olympic games.

The tenth in the modern series of Olympic games comes to Los Angeles this summer. But instead of only Greeks of unmixed blood, competitors will be drawn from all nations of the earth.

As Iphitos was the father of the ancient Greek contests, so is Baron Pierre de Coubertin, mustached little Frenchman, the father of the modern revival. It was he who fostered the renewal of the games with lectures and writings. He began in 1892 and four years later at Athens saw his dream come true.

COROEBUS was the first of the Olympic champions. He won a race in the first set of games in 776 B. C. His reward was a garland from the sacred wild olive tree, placed upon his brow by Iphitos.

The ancient exhibitions were Spartan in character—endurance and strength tests with an especial view to war. To these were added discus-throwing, broad-jumping, chariot racing and combinations of events known as the pentathlon and pancration.

Besides religious sanctity and the victor's wreath of wild olive, there was lasting fame in the work of sculptor, painter and poet. The effect of the games on the fine arts of the day was tremendous. The sculptor and painter found their best models in the naked bodies of competitors. For the poet there were the praises of the winners to sing in triumphant returns to native cities.

There was overemphasis, though, even as we know the word, and the games were suppressed. For almost 14 centuries there were no

Olympic contests.

Baron de Coubertin, because of his efforts to revive the contests, was made president of the first international Olympic committee. In this capacity he served for more than 30 years. For the games of 1932 at Lake Placid and Los Angeles, Count Henry Baillet-Latour, a Belgian, is president, but Baron de Coubertin retains an honorary presidency for life.

AMERICAN supremacy in the modern Olympics has been marked. This year we are warned that invaders from Finland, from Germany, from many territories and dominions of the British empire, will end our reign.

The contests at Los Angeles will open late in July and continue for 16 days. There will be 135 events in 15 branches of athletics. There will be four or five thousand contestants. And there will be spectacular action morning, afternoon and night in nine or more stadiums, auditoriums and water courses.

Molasses Adds Finish to Calves.

The boys who are now feeding molasses have reported that their calves are eating more grain. Cattlethat are fed molasses usually eat more, drink more water and the coat takes on a gloss that cattle which are not receiving sugar in some form do not have. The calves are fed a half pint per day with twice that amount of water for a few days and then they are increased to one pint with the some portion of water. The molasses is mixed with the water and then both thoroughly mixed with the feed. The cost will be about $1.50 per head for the last 60 days.

It is very doubtful if it would pay to feed commercial cattle sweet feed when cattle and feed are as cheap as they are at this time, but it will pay particularly for the better 4-H calves because those who purchase them pay a premium for the calves that are best finished and only market price for the ones that have not done so well. The packers others who buy the calves, are particularly anxious to encourage the boys who are interested enough to do a good job of feeding since they realize that these boys are the only ones that will continue to feed cattle after they become men. —W. T. McGee, Hockley County Agent.

Unemployment has its bright side after all. It's going to make a lot of fellows put higher values on their jobs when they do get them back.

Chinese Paper Prints Story Of W. T. Girl

First Russia and now China is recognizing W. T. and its students. This time it happens to be one of our students who is causing the comment.

In an early issue of the Prairie last quarter there was an article concerning the fact that Icela Crouch had brought a washing machine back to Canyon with her and stated her intention of earning her way this year by means of it. Lola Knierim, a freshman, from White Plains, Texas, sent a copy of the Prairie to her cousin Tom Nolan, who is in the navy and stationed in China. Mr. Nolan in turn, on discovering a similar article in the China Press, cut out the article and sent it to his cousin here thus completing the circle. The China Press is a daily newspaper published in Shanghai, China English speaking residents and have connections with the NEA Service through which it obtained the article, which is quoted below.

"Girl Washes Her Way Through Teachers College"
NEA Service

Canyon, Texas, Dec. 1, 1932. The chug of a gasoline-propelled washing machine is the battle cry of education for Icela Crouch and her brother, R. W., at West Texas State Teachers College here.

A bank failure is responsible for this unusual situation. Icela taught school for two years and saved the money to pay rent, tnition, fees and other college expenses for her brother and herself. Just as she was writing checks to defray these expenses, the bank in which she had her funds closed.

Undaunted, she returned to her home in a rural section of Floyd County and returned with the washing machine.

She explained her plight to the dean of women, and now she does laundry for many of the faculty members and one of the dormitories of the little school.

Her three room house stands across the street from the football stadium. The lights that flood the gridiron for night practice also furnish light for Miss Crouch to continue her work. The students trooping through the gates after a game see her wearily hanging the last of long lines of clothes.

"I have classes until late in the afternoon, so I do most of my work at night," she said. "The ironing is really the hardest because I insist on maintaining a standard as high as any laundry. But people just wont pay as high prices to a home laundry as they will to a steam laundry. I made $7.00 the first week I worked and it took most of the hours outside of school."

The income is just barely enough to allow the girl and her brother to meet our expenses, but it is growing steadily and they hope to save enough to enable them to participate in the simple social life at the school before the end of the term.

Fashion may be a stern dictator, but we doubt if it could make the girls give up the rumble-seat for hoop-skirts.

The man who says honesty is the best policy, never tried telling an ugly girl how she looked.

L. N. George Gives Report on Prospects Of Summer School

L. N. George, field secretary of the Ex-Students Association, gives a very encouraging report concerning the number of students who will attend the West Texas State Teachers college this summer from surrounding counties as he has recently made an extensive and intensive tour, visiting personally with many prospective students.

Following is a report given by Mr. George on the completion of his trips recently.

"It may seem a bit early just now to make an estimate of our summer attendance for this year, but most teachers are budgeting right now for summer school and are deciding on which college that they will attend. Candidates for high school graduation are selecting the colleges to which they will go and many are planning to enter this summer.

"I have recently seen most of the teachers in Carson, Potter, Gray and Swisher and have visited ten high schools in these and other counties. I find that practically all high school graduates who possibly can will attend during the summer. Because, wages are poor and they are anxious to go right on and finish college work as soon as possible. Teachers realize that they can do little else but teach and prepare to teach till conditions improve. The W. T. S. T. C. ex-students are sold to the idea of raising the standard of certification in Texas. They are building onto higher degrees and urging their fellow teachers to do likewise. Twenty eight counties are organized and working effectively and twelve more will be added soon.

"In the summer of 1930 Carson county was represented by 9 students. In 1931 there were 13 enrolled. Thirty eight teachers in Carson county have definitely decided to attend W. T. this summer. Some of the eighteen now in school from that county will remain for summer work and possibly some of the high school graduates of this year will enter.

"Gray county sent 11 students in the summer of 1930 and 22 in 1931. Forty teachers have indicated that they will be here from Gray this summer. There are 20 students now and 150 expecting to graduate from high school this spring. There are 173 teachers in Gray county and many of these are from W. T.

"Swisher county accounted for 17 students in the summer of 1930 and 23 in 1931. Out of the 30 teachers that I saw in Swisher county, twenty told me to expect them here this summer. There are 29 now attending W. T. from Swisher, and about 75 will graduate from high school this year.

"One hundred thirty-seven students came from Potter county last summer and while reliable data is incomplete, it is safe to prophesy that there will be a decided increase over last year from Potter county.

"To give all the details of this work would take a volume, but I think it well to mention a few things that we do. We organize our groups by counties and have at least one county banquet or get-to-gether each year. At these banquets we renew our allegiance to each other and to the College. Some member of the faculty tells the ex-students in the field how important they are to the College and some ex responds for the exes. We have a good time and leave them planning to come back to W. T. We take the quartet or other groups to mix with the college prospects and tell them about W. T.

"Week ends I take students who are now in school and on Saturday nights and at Sunday School and church on Sundays we mix with college prospects. In addition to this we talk to high school seniors in class groups and visit their parents in their homes and work out many of their difficulties this way.

"How many students will this work add to the enrollment? Any estimate of what the organized association brings in can be questioned. Because two, three or more individuals often work on the same prospective student. I judge that around 150 are here now as a result of the organized associations of ex-students. I have a list of seventy that I visited in their homes and possibly caused them to become interested in W. T. The average summer student spends $250 and we can possibly guarantee 200 students as a result of our work. This means a receipt of $50,000. During the long term we do about the same thing. The average spent by these students last year was $450. This brings in $90,000.00.

"There is no substantial argument against this work, and it should be permanently supported for the following resons: First, the territory is ripe for a large enrollment. Second, our college is in an ideal position to take on more students. Third, conditions in general could not be better for working for a college enrollment. Fourth, other colleges are coming in our territory. Fifth, we have gotten results and have laid a foundation by which we can improve our efficiency."

LETS BUILD CANYON, OR CITY COUNCIL.

To the three candidates for City office of Canyon:

You mention but one ordinance you will put in effect, towit 'Reduce your salaries to $5.00 per month each.'

There are a number of issues on which the people should know your attitude.

Of our own water system, will you allow more water (as we have an unlimited amount) for the minimum $1.50 per mo. 2000 gal as now serviced) so home owners may better care for trees, etc?

We should have at least 3000 gal. Water is now sometimes sold by Canyon to Construction Companies at 25 ct. 1000 gallons.

Will West end town be serviced with Fire Plugs out of remaining Bond Issue so they may get lower Ins.

Will the principle of Anti Neapotism law be enforced in Canyon?

Will you allow low tax rate on Telephone, Telegraph, Light & Power Companies, when they charge prosperous times prices?

About eighty percent of citizens find fault with Gas rates; What will you do?

Should taxpayers pay for night watchman in Business District, or the Business Firms?

Would you increase taxes on R. Road, W. T. Gas Company, who charge profits on watered stock, and decrease on homes?

Any officials would welcome city parks; give work to home taxpayers; give best police and fire protection and rid the town of any demoralizing agency.

There should be but one ticket, But we would know what they stand for these slippery times.

Respt. a voter and taxpayer,
J. I. BALLENGEE.

Canyon Eagles Down Hereford On Home Floor

Tuesday night the Eagles won two games from their old rivals, the Hereford Whitefaces, the boys taking a comfortable margin of 30 to 23, while the girls finished on the heavy end of a 27-25 score.

The boys held a slight edge over their foes during the entire game. At the half the score was 15-11 for the Eagles. Much of this was due to the sellar playing of Harden and Pearson, scoring 6 and 7 points respectively during the first half. Wooten and Cox held down the guard positions ably, since each Hereford forward scored only 2 points each during the frst half. Wooten made the other tally.

Besides the forward's scores, Wilson, guard, made 5 points, and Miller, the other guard for Hereford, made 2 points for their grand total of 11 during the first half.

During the last half, Pearson and Harden ran their points to 12 each to tie for the high point position. Wright turned in a good game.

Seed and A. Wilson, forwards for Hereford scored two more points each in the second. G. Wilson made 8 points to become the high point man for the Whitefaces. Allred, center, hit the free one for their sum of 12 points.

The Canyon girls played their fastest and best game of the year to defeat Hereford by the score of 27-25. Moore was the star of the Eagles. She played the entire game, amassing 16 points. Sanders helped her during the first half by scoring 3 points.

Schmitz scored the other eight points during the last half.

Capt. Koger and Greenfield kept the Hereford score down. Plaster and Crawford played the game with an xcellent brand of basketetball.

The stellar player of the floor was Sherman, forward for the Whitefaces, who scored the entire 25 points made by Hereford.

THE SPREAD IN EDUCATIONAL TRAINING.

Training through education has supplanted training by apprenticeship. This development has been in two distinct directions; first, the training by private schools for almost every conceivable vocation; second, the orzanization of schools or training courses by large corporations for the purpose of training employees or prospective employees.

In the first group we have such institutions as the regularly organized schols for training in aviation. There are schools in masonry, brick laying, classes for building engineers and janitors. There is the farmer supplementing his knowledge of agriculture and stock raising by attending short courses organized and conducted by agricultural colleges. There are the coaching schools preparing athletes who are or anticipate coaching as a career. There are the bakery schools salesmanship schools, barber schools, and schools for teaching the art of dress making, riding and the schools for training hotel help.

A casual examination of a classified directory of one large city reveals five hundred such private schools exclusive of private educational institutions in the more restricted sense. Numerically, the training organizations far exceed this number for no account is taken of those classes of schools instituted and supported by companies who conduct their schools in driving for new employees. There is Western Union with its own training school preparing employees or prospective employees for its work. Our stock exchanges and metropolitan banking institutions are similarly active. Industrial organizations are organizing their workers into regular classes, giving to those who lack it the rudiments of an elementary education—this instruction being on the company's time and expense. These private or industry and business educational projects represent comparatively new developments. Few are aware of their rapid growth and wide-spread development.

They add new emphasis to the place of our public schools in the scheme of things, for the school training acquired s basic. It it were not for the work of the public schools, this specialized educational program would not be possible.

There is an added importance attached to the public schools in that they have been instrumental in planting in the minds of their charges a desire for this further training. If there were no desire for special training, there would be no private schools. If the schools had not planted the desire, there would be no demand for the added training.

It is like-wise self-evident that there is a new appreciation both by employers and employees of the importance of adequate training for the job. To this end the schools have an important part. The rapid rise of special training for special work and the foresight to furnish that training are the results of a new view-point—a new vision, the seeds of which were planted by public schools. Their work has just begun.

BOYS AND GIRLS ASSEMBLY

During the home room period Wednesday the boys and girls met in separate assemblies.

The girls were entertained with a discussion of styles by Miss Mattie Swayne of the English department of the College. The talk was made very interesting by the comparison of our style in dress with our mental styles. She stated that the long dresses were bringing out more feminine qualities in girls and women than the extreme boyish styles of three or four years ago.

Mr. Carruth talked to the boys on "The Importance of Choosing a Vocation," bringing out points that should be considered in choosing a life work. "Make a study and observe the work you like before you go into it," advised Mr. Carruth.

Both talks were enjoyable and gave the students much food for thought.

FRESHMEN MEET.

The Freshman Class met Monday, Feb. 1st, in the study hall under the supervision of Miss Foster, Mr. Fox, Miss Goodrich.

Mr. Fox took charge and the following oficers were elected:

Everyone is expecting several of the Canyon High students out to win the tournament this year.

Eagles Split Games While On Road Trip

The Eagles took a road trip over the week end, dividing the games. The Hornets at Tulia won 13-10. The Westerners of Lubbock felt the revenge of the Eagles when Canyon eked out a victory of 27-26. This evened the count with the Westerners who had previously defeated the locals by a 3 point margin.

The girls lost to the Tulia team, 29 to 19. They did not go to Lubbock.

The center from Tulia made 10 of his team's points. Pearson of the Eagles team made half of the Canyonite's scores. The Eagles were off considerably, failing to make most of ther shots, but the Hornets looped practically everyone they tried. The Eagle defense kept their attempts down to a meager sum.

The girls showed good competition but not enough to win. Moore and Schmitz of Canyon did the scoring.

Saturday night the Eagles invaded the den of the Westerners. Canyon scored first and held the lead, always small, during most of the first 3 quarters. The lads from Lubbock overcame this lead and held it until a few seconds before the end. They had a two point lead but a free goal by Taylor cut the score to 26-25. Just as the game ended Wooten scored 2 points which gave a victory to the Eagles.

THE FLU EPIDEMIC.

The flu epdemic which has closed down, or greatly hindered many schools has not struck Canyon High yet. By taking every precaution and being very careful, we may prevent its doing so. If the parents will co-operate with the faculty and keep all children with any cold at all home, the epidemic will not spread. Colds at school are not only against the school's walfare, but endanger the child with the cold. It would be very easy for a child in that condition to contract flu.

Poor ventilation, over-eating, fatigue, spreading of germs by coughing and sneezing are the major; causes of colds.

The following are rules of health every member of Canyon Public Schools ought to adopt:

1. Ventilate every room you occupy.
2. Wear light loose pourous clothes.
3. Seek out-of-door recreation and occupations.
4. Avoid over-eating and overweight.
5. Avoid excess of high protein foods, such as meat, flesh foods, eggs, also excess of salt and highly seasoned foods.
6. Eat some hard, bulky or raw foods daily.
7. Eat slowly and taste your food.
8. Use sufficient water internally and externally.
9. Secure thorough intestinal elimination daily.
10. Stand, sit and walk erect.
11. Do not allow poisons and infections to enter the body.
12. Keep teeth, gums and tongue clean.
13. Work, play, rest, sleep in modration.
14. Breathe deeply, take deep breathing exercises several times a day.
15. Keep serene and whole heart ed.

I'm Abused and I Protest!

They say that even a worm will turn and although I know nothing about worms, I can sympathize with it, or them.

People always—no, not always—but nearly always grumble when I put in an appearance.

And I protest! Years ago electricity was used only for lighting. Rates were higher. Today, lighting is the smallest part. You probably have any number of electrical appliances helping you with your housework—appliances that you wouldn't do without. You are using two or three times as much current as you did only a few years ago.

And still I am called the electric light bill.

After all, I have a certain pride. When you used electricity for lighting only, that was all right. It is not true today.

The next time you find me in your mail box, Remember—

I am the bill representing the complete electric service furnished you by

CHAMBER OF COMERCE

FRED E. WORTHAM, Secretary

One of the latest duties discoveries for a Chamber of Commerce has been revealed in a United Press dispatch from Austin.

"Austin, Texas,—When an oil man, in an informal discussion, was complaining to Attorney General James V. Allred about the immense amount of litigation pending in the courts, Allred sensed that he had the attorney general's anti-trust suits against oil companies as one of his grievances. So he pulled this one:

"You know we have been going along here with our court dockets all crowded for years without finding a remedy but now we have hit on it." Allred said.

"What is it?' asked the oil man.

"We are going to transfer a lot of the cases to the chambers of commerce,' Allred replied."

Not long ago a prominent educator was reported as saying that there are just three kinds of people in the world the few who make things happen; the slightly larger group who observe them happen; and the great majority, who never even know they are happening.

This group is very apparent in community work. Every city has a small number of men who make things happen. They erect buildings, or cause them to be erected; they establish industries, or cause them to be established; they plan and execute. About such men is a larger group, who watch them work, who find out what is going on, and who may even profit materially by their observation. Surrounding them all is the great mass of people who go about their own affairs oblivious to what is transpiring—oblivious at least to the causes of what is happening. They see a fine new building being erected. They may comment on its size or shape, but seldom do they realize that one, or maybe two or three men, have made that building happen.

In Chamber of Commerce work, again, a few men make things happen. These few are the "clique" of whom strangers hears—the "clique" that runs the Chamber of Commerce." Members see a new factory, or sit in a new park, or ride over a new road, or attend a celebration that the chamber has sponsored. Most of them accept such things as specials of civic phenomena—things which, like Topsy, have just "growed" in the community. They seldom realize that somebody made them happen.

No matter what his particular field of endeavor, it would be profitable if every man would take stock occassionally and determine in which of these three groups he belongs.

We are informed that Carmel, Calif., has the smallest Chamber of Commerce on record containing but three members, one of which is President, another vice-president, and the third, secretary.

THERE'S LITTLE MONOTONY IN NEW FASHIONS, WITH TRICKY SLEEVE AND NECKLINE POINTING WAY FOR SPRING

BY HARRIET

SLEEVES and necklines are the focal points in the late winter fashions that forecast what will be what when spring comes 'round the corner.

There are several kinds of sleeves that are tricky, and are to be seen in various versions. First comes the coat sleeve that usually is set up into the shoulder along with a yoke of some cut or other, and is seven-eighths or full length. This coat sleeve can have its pick of doing tricks at the elbow or wait until the cuff is reached.

There is increased tendency to make the elbow the point of interest. A puff introduced on the outside of the sleeve; a slit with buttons and buttonholes and a contrasting color inside, seen through the slit; a diagonal ruffle or banding, depending on whether it's silk or wool that is being used; and various kinds of novelty tucks, pleats, bias band and so on make elbows ten times more noticeable and intriguing than they used to be.

• • •

A NEW coat of soft brown, with threads of bright green, orange and beige flecking it, has its raglan sleeves ornamented at the elbow with two very wide tucks that stand up, instead of down. They are stitched with the three colors that the flecks bring out.

This coat has a very unusual neckline, too. With a double surplice scarf front, both sides buttoning over onto the opposite hip, the coat has no collar at all, but simply the coat's line, cut rather high, standing out from the neck. No coat to be worn when the winds are howling. But just the coat to greet spring in. A little brown straw hat, with a green feather coque standing up on it, completes the picture.

Another kind of coat sleeve, one that focuses attention on the cuff, is illustrated by a novelty gray wool coat imported from France. It has a fitted cuff with fancy tucks in it that set up high on the sleeve, almost to the elbow. This cuff buttons shut up the inside of the sleeve, making the cuff quite as tight as a well-tailored dress usually has its sleeve.

This coat also has a novelty scarf collar. It consists of a cunningly cut scarf that makes a little turn-down collar, like a sports shirt, and then has a triangular scarf down both the front and the back, fastening on the shoulder.

One of the new departures in sleeve design is shown above at the left in a novelty gray wool coat, which has a fitted cuff with fancy tucks set high on the sleeve. The cuff buttons shut on the sleeve's inside. Note the novelty scarf collar. The coat of soft brown, flecked with orange, green and beige, shown at right, has, in its raglan sleeves, two very wide tucks that point upward. It also has an unusual neckline, using a double surplice scarf front, giving a no-collar effect.

Weather Stripping

——KEEPS OUT THE DIRT

Housekeeping need not be such a task despite the high dust storms of spring weather.

Of course weather stripping can't keep out all the dirt, but it stops the cracks around windows and doors and shuts out a very large part of it.

As a labor-saving and fuel-saver (it keeps out cold air, too) it is a quite profitable investment. Prices are low.

Let us figure with you now while sandstorms are getting started for their spring season.

FLANNIKEN IS ELECTED QUEEN IN ANNUAL RACE

MARTIN, BERRYMAN, WARREN, ALVORD, CASH TO BE MAIDS OF HONOR.

Apparently Josephine Flanniken measures up to the student body's conception of everything a college queen should be for she led the field of six contestants in the college queen contest sponsored by Le Mirage by a comfortable margin when the polls closed last Wednesday afternoon.

As queen of the Buffalo range, Miss Flanniken will be featured in the beauty section of Le Mirage, W. T.'s year book, with her maids of honor in the following order: Mary Martin, Mary Berryman, Marie Warren, Laurene Alvord, and Dorothy Cash. Each of these girls will have a full-length picture in the annual.

There were ten candidates in the first phase of the contest, and from these, six were elected by money vote to enter the finals. The finals were conducted on a popular vote basis, but the candidates were allowed to keep the votes they had amassed in the primaries. Eight of the candidates were advanced by various organizations on the campus, while two were selected from the student body at large. Of the six who entered the finals, Miss Flanniken represented the student body at large, Miss Martin was the Elapheian candidate, Miss Berryman was selected by the senior class, Miss Warren represented W. A. A., Laurene Alvord was advanced by the Pi Omegas, and Dorothy Cash was a candidate from the student body.

TWO NUMBERS OF LYCEUM COURSE TO BE THIS WEEK

NOTED CELLIST AND FAMOUS NATURALIST TO BE HERE FEBRUARY 10, 13.

Cornelius Van Vliet, Dutch artist with an international reputation as an accomplished cellist, and Captain Charles W. R. Knight of England, famous lecturer and photographer of birds of prey, will appear here this week on the Lyceum course. Dr. Van Vliet will appear Wednesday evening, February 10. He is recognized as one of the leading cellists of the present time. He has appeared with all the great orchestras as soloist and has served with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra as their regular first cellest. His playing is mar[illegible] charming fluency and del[illegible] its tone is full, broad ar[illegible] oritative. It is said that [illegible] entrances his audience [illegible] musicianship. His appearan[illegible] provide an opportunity to [illegible] ciate the high artistic [illegible] ment as a solo artist of o[illegible] has long been associated with one of the country's finest orchestras. This distinguished violoncellist for many years also occupied the first chair in the New York Philharmonic-Symphony cello section. There has never been an exclusive cello recital at West Texas, and yet there is a decided preference for this instrument expressed generally among the students and faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Vliet will be accompanied by Mrs. Emil Meyers

Captain Knight will appear here next Saturday evening, February 13. He, of Golden Eagle fame, brings to the United States a really different kind of lecture. He is the first and only man to film the life of the golden eagle in Scotland achieving one of the finest natural moving pictures in the history. His name is now synonymous with the best and finest in bird photography. So successful has the Captain been with the American audience that this is his fourth annual tour of America. It required three summers to secure all the pictures necessary to tell the entire life story of the eagle from the time it was an egg in an eyrie on a rugged cliff in the north of Scotland until it became old and unable to fly, just as the world thinks of Martin Johnson as the greatest photographer of big game, so has it come to regard Captain Knight as the greatest photographer of big denizens of the air.

Futhermore it is doubted if anyone else can describe the birds he has photographed in just the same dramatic, amusing and witty manner. His picturestory, "Filming the Golden Eagle." has been shown before the largest audiences in America and stands first as an interesting show with educational values. While there are many thrills in the picture and the lecture, there also is much unexpected humor, for Captain Knight is an accomplished show-man, a story teller of rare ability, and a reconteur who has no superior.

Captain Knight, moreover is a distinguished soldier, having won the military cross in the Great War. He was selected as sniper to his battalion in France in the spring of 1915 and in 1917 was sent of America as instructor and lecturer to an American division. He also is a man of great strength and endurance. To swing at the end of a rope from the top of a cliff 300 feet high as he has often done, is no job for a weakling; to stand as he has done, for hours waist deep in chilly swamp water, tests every power of body and mind; and few would care to spend a whole day in the topmost branches of a very tall tree filming herons on their nests as he has done.

Then, again, the handling of a golden eagle is a most dangerous business. There is no other living creature in the world with such enormous muscular power is packed in such relatively small weight nor no bird with such terrible strength in its talons. Twice Grampian, Capt. Knight's tame golden eagle, attacked him. On the first occasion he was wearing a fencing mask, which protected his eyes, yet so great was the force of her blow that he had a black eye for weeks.

The second occasion was much more serious. This time the flight was being filmed, so Captain Knight had decided not to wear the mask. Records were obtained of the great bird attacking the lure in mid-air, and then it was decided to film her as she landed on the trainers outstretched fist. She came magnificiently, landing on his extended arm with a force that made him stagger, strong as he is.

Then, without the slightest warning she shot out her right foot straight at his face. One curved talon drove through his check, another through his ear and the two closed together with the force of a steel spring. The struggle to free himself was long and desperate and when at last the hooked claws were forced apart it was necesary to have three stitches put into one cut in his cheek. This wound and the hole clean through his left ear had to be disinfected with carbolic and were a long time healing. But the Captain declares that the pictures he secured are worth all the danger and inconvenience occasioned by these attacks.

The London Punch says, "Captain Knight may be depended on to produce worth-while films and this latest peep at wild life is a wholly delightful entertainment, because he has sense of humor amply proved in his choice of subject, his bright running commentary and the excellent fun of the drawings that accompany the captions. The whole thing is well constructed without a dull moment."

Captain Knight will bring his trained eagle, Mr. Ranshaw, and this eagle will make personal appearance before his American audiences (D. V., as the British say) The eagle has performed before and over the audience. This bird has traveled with Capt. Knight more than 25,000 miles and is exceedingly well trained.

Dr. Van Vliet will appear next Wednesday, February 10,, at 8:15 in the main auditorium. Captain Knight will lecture next Saturday evening, February 13, at 8:15 in the main college auditorium. Blanket taxes are good for admission to both of the events.

Irish Players to Come to Amarillo On Artist Course

For the first time since 1914 the Abbey Irish Players are again appearing in America with the special permission of the Irish Free State. As a number of the Amarillo Artist Course, they will present "The White Headed Boy" Monday afternoon, and "The Far Off Hills" Monday night, February 15, in the Amarillo High School Auditorium. Both of these plays were written by Lennox Robinson, who is also the personal director and manager of the plays.

These Irish players, as well as being recognized as the parents of the Little Theatre movement, are among the world's noted actors in drama today, and their plays represent the best literature in drama.

They also have the advantage of producing plays the subjects of which are very near to their own lives. Ireland is a very small country, and, though many of their best plays are about country things and country people, the Irish country comes very close to the city of Dublin. These plays should be especially valuable to students of drama and literature.
